FINANCE

State finances are in a critical stage particularly after a shock emanated from Covid-19 pandemic. The economy contracted by more than seven percent in the fiscal 2020-21. Fiscal deficit of the union and states has increased dramatically. Consequently, debt of the union and states has increased further. Since finances of the union government are in turmoil, the resource flow from the union to the states is compressed. The second reason is the escalating public expenditure of the State due to popular unproductive loan waiving of farmers, taking over the debts of the power discoms under Ujwal Discom Assurance Yojana (UDAY). The third reason is the poor own tax (including State-GST) and non-tax revenue collection by the states. As a result, the developmental expenditure except health has slowed down. Countering this requires the following questions to be addressed:

- How to reprioritise public expenditure to build physical, social and institutional infrastructure catalyst for high economic growth and better social security nets?
- How to curb wasteful public expenditure?
- How to generate more revenues both tax and non-taxes and identify the potential of new sources?

DEVELOPMENT

India's social sector or civil society is integral to its democracy. Despite this, we are a long way from developing an enabling and conducive environment. Gender inequality despite economic growth, implementation challenges of rights based schemes, vulnerability to climate change are few lingering issues. Development in any sector or area should ultimately lead to achieving a 'higher standard of living'. The key measurement parameters for development should focus on: Housing, Health, Food and Nutrition; Cleanliness and Hygiene; Education; Employment and so on. The panel discusses the following:

1. What are the specific goals to be achieved?
2. What are the challenges?
3. What is your vision 2021-25?
