Justice Chittatosh Mookerjee

Former Chief Justice, Calcutta & Bombay High Court

Grandson of the legendary Sir Asutosh Mookerjee, Justice Chittatosh Mookerjee is the true torchbearer of a great legacy. He started the general practice of the law in 1953 at Calcutta High Court. His work was marked for its quality and volume. When he was elevated to the Bench, he had an unbelievably large number about 3,000 briefs, which was a record by any reckoning.

His crisp and lucid judgments covered the entire spectrum of law, shedding lambent light on many ticklish legal issues. No filigree or ornamentation, he left out all unnecessary details and with an uncanny sense went to the hub of the matter. He headed the Cauvery River Water Dispute Tribunal and made an unconventional but efficacious interim order directing release of water by Karnataka to Tamil Nadu. He was the first Chairman of the West Bengal Human Rights Commission and did exemplary work to prevent and punish violation of human rights and transform constitutional phrase into a reality.

His contributions in diverse fields of endeavour have been splendid. Contact with him makes one grow, interaction with him keeps one's faculties sharp. Knowledge to him is the bread of life.

It is given to very few to be a legend in one's lifetime. Justice Chittatosh Mookerjee belongs to that select class.
